"I'M GOING ON A DIET"

★ Perhaps overeating is the most common dietary indiscretion. The natural result of overeating is obesity. It has been said that we in America eat ourselves into a premature grave. The pendulum then frequently swings back to the other extreme. We go on a diet. Many self-imposed reducing diets wouldn't keep a bird alive, and often serious vitamin, mineral, and protein deficiencies result.

In recent years great strides have been made in our knowledge of nutrition. For the maintenance of optimal health one must be assured that proper balance of various foods is maintained. For dietary advice of any kind see your physician. You can then be certain that all bodily needs are being adequately met. Bring your prescriptions to us.

FATHER DARKLEAF

By The Editor

Erwyn W. Williamson, son of [illegible] Williamson, Route 4, Appomattox, was among the 80 Lynchburg College students named to the dean's list for high scholastic achievement during the summer session.

We want to congratulate the A. [illegible] cafeteria committee for the [illegible]prices named for luncheons at the school cafeteria this year. In the [illegible] of soaring living cost boost [illegible] wonderful to know that school [illegible]ons can still be at pre-war [illegible]. Somebody is doing a [illegible]swell [illegible]believe you me.

We understand that the current [illegible] spell has slowed down use of [illegible]community canneries, or maybe [illegible]body has already put up all [illegible]can use this winter. However, [illegible]noted a rather large group of [illegible]ons at the cannery here yesterday.

[illegible]n't it nice to be able to stay [illegible]of the jets and coal groups on [illegible]ge sisters! Eddie Darkleaf [illegible]s car, so all we have is room to [illegible] to the post office and back.

Elder Darkleaf is no authority [illegible]ring music, but we always re[illegible]d Sud Bell. Sud is now 66, was [illegible] younger when we heard him [illegible] years ago in Accomack County [illegible]southern part of Accomack, [illegible]a. My, what that fellow could [illegible]ch a banjo. Now, we read in [illegible] New York Times that Sud has [illegible]ed over Hog Island and rules a [illegible]tsar-ship of seven-mile island. [illegible]sland is sixteen miles easward [illegible] Virginia's Eastern Shore. Sud [illegible]there, leather-faced and wrinkled through wind-whipped waves [illegible]ny winters; fishing and playing [illegible]banjo! Fifty years ago Hog Island had about 40 families, but in [illegible]ober, 1933, a hurricane roared [illegible]om the Atlantic and when it [illegible]spent itself the village of Broadwater was about ruined. The folks [illegible]ed to the mainland. That's when [illegible] Bell and his son took over. [illegible]Bell is known far and wide as [illegible]durnest banjo-playing fool in [illegible]nia." Walter Chrysler many [illegible]s ago took Sud to New York to [illegible]efore his friends. She folks [illegible]him. He composed much of his [illegible]. Some weeks ago Virginia's [illegible]mmonwealth-loving Governor, Bill [illegible], flew over to the Eastern [illegible]ore and made a call on Hog Island to hear Sud Bell play that old [illegible]. Sud was out clamming when [illegible]Governor, arrived, but His Excellency waited! And then Governor [illegible] persuaded Sud to fly back with [illegible]m to Richmond to make music in [illegible]ncoln city." The Times quotes Governor [illegible]as saying, "I went. I'd do anything for Bill Tuck."

[illegible]rofessor Titus W. Beasley, a native of Appomattox County, teacher of history and governments at [illegible]dwest Baptist College, Bolivar, [illegible]ouri, is listed in Who's Who in the Central States for 1947. There [illegible]approximately 5,000 names in [illegible]1,000 page volume. Prof. Beasley will complete his 24th year of [illegible]ching in Missouri Colleges this [illegible]ar. He holds a long list of honors [illegible]Appomattox should be proud of [illegible]outstanding native son. He is [illegible]rother of Grover P. Beasley, of [illegible]ywood.

Straw Vote On Parking Meters

In an effort to get an expression of public opinion on the matter of whether or not the town of Appomattox should install parking meters a group of local business men have published a straw ballot in today's issue to give people both in town and in the trade area a chance to "vote" for or against.

The matter is now before the local town council, and was referred to a committee at the September meeting. Meters can be installed with a cost to the town and according to a suggested plan, some 40 of them would be set up on parts of Main and Church Streets, with charges at the rate of twelve minutes parking for one cent.

Readers of the Times-Virginian are invited to use the straw ballot.

Virginia Road Needs Great

Richmond, Sept. 10.– There are more than 9,000 miles of primary highway in the State of Virginia, of which 60,33 miles are in Appomattox County.

The greater portion of this mileage is "obsolete and inadequate" in the light of modern standards and in view of ever increasing traffic loads, the Highway Department declares. Throughout the State there is pressing need for new construction and improvement. To bring the State's road system to modern standards will take $500,000,000, the departments says, and calls that a conservative estimate. These revealing facts were disclosed last week in an interview with State Highway Department engineers.

Based on estimated revenues, $20,000,000 has been allocated for primary road construction in the next fiscal year. This amount will only scratch the surface in the overall improvement of Virginia's highways.
